

BATTLE OF AISNE RAGES FOR THIRD DAY WITHOUT ANY DECISIVE RESULTS

GERMAN FORCES APPEAR TO BE HOLDING OUT WELL AGAINST TERRIFIC AT-TACK OF ALLIES.

BERLIN CLAIMS VICTORY

Advices From German Capital
Cotend That Recent Retreat
Was A Strategic Maneuver
—Heavy Rain Adds To Battle Honors.

The third day of the battle of the Aisne finds the hosts of the Germans and the Allies facing each other along a line of some two hundred miles stretching from Noyon, fifty-five miles northeast of Paris, southeast to the Swiss frontier.

The battle line proper extends roughly from Noyon to Nancy about 150 miles. Here between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 men are engaged in a struggle that in ferocity and strategic importance bids fair to rival the battle of the Marne.

Each side claims a slight advantage—and no more. It is known only that the German retreat has been turned into a stubborn resistance. The Allies assert that they were so close on the heels of the Germans that the latter were compelled to turn about and fight to escape destruction. The German reports represent their armies as reforming in strong positions following the withdrawal of the vicinity of Paris and again taking the offensive.

Thus far, death is the only decided victor. It is admitted that his toll already is enormous—so staggering that official sources hesitate to reveal the fact.

Rain continues falling on the battlefield and has rendered parts of it impassable for guns and cavalry, while adding greatly to the distress of the men.

This afternoon's announcement at Paris says a great battle continues all along the Aisne.

Continuing reports of the situation in the eastern theatre of war are received from official and unofficial sources. The several German army corps sent into East Prussia appear to have pushed back the Russian invaders of that territory with great loss to the Russians. It is thought that a part of the German force may be diverted to Russian Poland.

In Galicia the Russian successes seem to be continued with the Austrian and Germans falling back on Przemyśl. Enormous losses to the Austrians are admitted at Vienna.

The latest official announcement at Nish claims less for the Serbian arms than have earlier statements, indicating that Austria still has considerable forces available to oppose the Serbian invasion. The Serbians, however, with the aid of their Montenegrin Allies, appear to be more than holding their own.

The most recent word from the far east describes the Japanese troops as struggling through the flooded north of Shang Tung peninsula trying to reach Kiaow Chow. There is no indication of an early investment of that German stronghold.

The Turkish army is reported from Petrograd to be concentrating on the Bulgarian frontier. The final attitude of Italy is awaited with intense interest demonstrations in favor of the Allies at Rome and at other places have been suppressed by the military. In the meantime, Italy is engaged with the serious situation in Albania where the insurgents have been threatening since the withdrawal of Prince William of Wied. Italian troops already have been landed at Avlona.

Paris, Sept. 17.—The Germans are slowly giving way to the great battle that continues today all along the line of the river Aisne according to an official announcement made in Paris this afternoon.

The text of the official communication is as follows:

"First: on our left wing the resistance of the enemy on the heights to the north of the river Aisne has continued in spite of the fact that the enemy gave back slightly at certain points.

"Second: on the center between Berry-au-Bac on the Aisne and the Argonne the situation shows no change. The enemy continued to fortify themselves along the line previously indicated. Between the Argonne and the Meuse the Germans are entrenching themselves in the vicinity of Mont Faucon in the Meuse district. We have come in contact with several detachments of the enemy between Etant and Thiaucourt.

"Third: on our right wing in Lorraine and the Vosges there has been no change."

French Progress Slow.

Summing up, the battle is being continued along the entire front between the river Oise and the river Meuse. The Germans occupy positions organized for defense and armed with heavy artillery.

"Our progress is of necessity slow, but our troops are animated by a spirit of offensive action and they are giving evidence of vigor and enthusiasm. They have repulsed with success the counter attacks undertaken by the enemy both during the day and at night. The morale of the French soldiers is excellent."

"The Austrian armies evacuated Galicia and are in full retreat. Their losses in killed, wounded and prisoners, are estimated at several hundred thousand men.

"The German army corps which went to their assistance are retreating."

Doubt As To Crown Prince.

The official communication of Sunday says that the French and English had crossed the Aisne. If so they had the river at their back while the Germans are strongly entrenched on the heights of Lagny and Reims with their right protected by the Oise and the Aisne at Noyon.

The undetermined element in this fight is the Allies right which is in pursuit of the Crown Prince's army. All reports indicate that the latter is demoralized as was Von Kluck's army and has suffered equally from lack of provisions and ammunition. While Von Kluck had no doubt received what he needed in this respect, it is doubtful if the Crown Prince has.

Report German Successes.

Berlin, Sept. 17.—An official report given out at army headquarters at night says that the French front remains unchanged. The French attack on a number of points Tuesday night and Wednesday were successfully repulsed by the Germans, while a number of victorious counter attacks.

"Owing to illness General Von Hausen, former commander of the second division of the Saxon army, has been replaced by General von Ehem, former minister of war. General Von Hausen is 63 years old.

"Another change in leadership has taken place in the 14th reserve corps where General von Schubert has been replaced by Quartermaster General von Stein, the well known editor of the official war reporter and author of Laconic war bulletins.

"It is reported here from Vienna that 1800 Galician tailors had been brought into Graz, Austria, where they are awaiting sentence. They are said to have been paid by Russia to signal the position of Austrian troops to the Russian army.

"Lieutenant Tideman of the fifth Prussia Cuirassiers found 21 German recruits lying helpless on a hill in East Prussia. Cossacks had surprised them the day before and had severed their hands or legs, and had cut off their ears or noses.

Deny French Victory.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The German embassy today received the following wireless from Berlin:

"All the French-English reports of victories of battles in France are untrue. The German retreat of the western wing was a practical maneuver not affecting the strategic position. The Russian attempts to break through the center of the German position were victoriously repulsed.

"There is confirmation of German success at several points of the long extended battle field. The German reports that the losses of the British army in the recent fighting amounted to 15,000 dead and wounded.

New German Plan.

Rome, Sept. 17.—The Italian states that the German headquarters staff has adopted a new plan which consists of maintaining a defensive against the allies in the west while undertaking an offensive movement against the Russian front. Twelve army corps have been employed.

Rhine Towns Fortifying.

London, Sept. 17.—Telegraphing from Maestricht, Holland, the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company says that dispatches received in Maestricht from Cologne, Dusseldorf, Meisel and Gulsburg indicate that these places are strengthening their fortifications to meet a possible advance of the allies.

The four towns mentioned in the previous dispatch are on the Rhine. Cologne is 45 miles northwest of Coblenz, an important military stronghold; Dusseldorf is 21 miles northwest of Cologne; Gulsburg is fifteen miles north of Dusseldorf, and Meisel is 32 miles northwest of Dusseldorf.

To the west of this group of cities is the frontier of Holland from which they are a distance of 20 to 35 miles.

Story of Fighting.

The correspondent of the Times at Paris, sends this story of the fighting on the river Aisne:

"The enemy has found means to rest his retreat for the time being and is offering a stubborn resistance on a line which he had prepared strongly for defense. He has received considerable reinforcements probably from Lorraine, where he seems to have abandoned the offensive.

The fighting is hottest around Soissons where the high ground is held. Terrible stories are reaching Paris of piles of dead and wounded which encumber the battlefield of the Marne, and the red cross is working with the forces of the Germanic allies to remove the wounded from the battlefield.

Germans Still Held Liege.

In a dispatch from Maestricht, Holland, by way of Amsterdam, a correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company says that the Germans have not evacuated Liege and the situation there is still in the hands of the city are allowed to remain on the streets until nine o'clock. Numerous German regiments of infantry and artillery with forts guns passed through the city on their way to the direction of northern France.

Ninety Mile Battle Front.

London, Sept. 17.—Along a ninety-mile front the German armies are at bay and the allies are occupying a ledge across the river Aisne which was won after the most spectacular and thrilling crossings ever made by an attacking force under fire.

Both sides have suffered enormously during the past week and the present pause undoubtedly is being used to bring reinforcements and supplies. Petrograd reports that the flower of the German army is being hurled against the Russian front.

Something of the horrors of modern warfare is indicated by the hesitancy with which the authorities discuss the terrible losses marking the progress of the armies from the Marne to the Aisne. The stories are told with great restraint, but with enough gruesome details to make even military men shudder.

French on Defensive.

Paris, Sept. 16.—The rear guard action proposed at first to be intended as a check to pursuit and to facilitate the retreat of the German army of Generals Von Kluck and Von Buelow, has developed what will probably be called in history the battle of Aisne. Whether the Germans found it necessary to advance to turn and engage in a general action or not, the great battle wages fiercely and rivals in importance the battle of the Marne.

The war office says that the French have not flinched at any point. This sounds as if they were on the defensive and it might be so in view of the strength of the position the Germans occupy.

Report Liege Abandoned.

London, Sept. 17, 8:17 a. m.—A Rome dispatch to the exchange telegraph company states that it is officially admitted in Berlin that the Germans have abandoned Liege.

REVERSES FOR AUSTRIA

Emperor Francis Joseph Calls All Reservists En Masse As His Armies Retreat Before Pursuing Russians.

London, Sept. 17.—A Petrograd special dispatch to the Times says:

"According to the latest information available here, the Germans, realizing the futility of the eight army corps from their western front, are returning their first line of troops from east Prussia westward.

"Military circles here are still puzzling over the problem of why Germany should have made the blunder of sending such an enormous army to east Prussia where it was bound to remain idle while the Russian army attempted to invade Russia with the almost complete certainty of sharing the fate of the Austrian forces in Galicia.

Population Stamped.

"The real explanation seems to be that half the population in east Prussia was stamped before General Rennenkampf, carrying the panic to Berlin. Germany felt compelled to tranquilize the population by sending a great army to the area occupied by the Russians."

Call All Reservists.

Paris, Sept. 17.—Rome dispatches from Vienna say that the New Austrian army is approaching call of all reservists en masse.

According to the Reichspost, Emperor Francis Joseph said to the archduke Charles Francis, when the latter was leaving to take his place in the army:

"Never in my life has anything cost me so much pain as the duty of taking such a grave decision."

Reservists at Paris Get Order to Report on September 28th—Believe Italy is to Fight.

London, Sept. 17.—In a dispatch from Paris, the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the Italian reservists in the French capital have been called for September 28th. They believe, the correspondent says, that this means Italy's entrance into the war.

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—Philadelphia has declared war on rats. Every rodent has a price on its head. Richard H. Harris, director of health, is paying two cents per head for dead rats and five cents for live ones.

Offer New Four-Year Agricultural Course.

Manhattan, Kas., Sept. 17.—With agriculture the chief industry of the state, the Kansas Agricultural College, today for the first time offered a four year course in agriculture. The new course will include work in farm machinery, irrigation or drainage engineering and flour milling.

The school is the only institution in the United States to offer work in these three lines and its initiation indicates that Kansas is going to solve her own problems in that line.

Cross Drina River.

Paris, Sept. 17.—A Nish, Servia, dispatch to the Havas agency says:

"Resuming the offensive the Austrians passed the Drina river to the south and southwest and marched toward Kromani and Valjevo. Servian towns about ten and thirty-five miles respectively, from the Bosnian frontier.

On a front of more than sixty miles comprising Lubovici, Svinik and Losnitza along the Bosnian frontier, desperate battles have been fought for four days.

The latest news declares that the situation of the Servians is favorable in spite of desperate attacks.

BOYS STEAL ENGINE AND ELUDE CAPTURE

Missouri Reform School Youths in Thrilling Escape As Detectives
Follow Iron Trail.

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 17.—An escape from the reform school at Boone, Mo., a wild ride at night on a stolen engine, pursued by detectives in a similar conveyance, and in imminent danger of being hurled into a wreck through dispatchers' orders was the experience last night of seven boys, who are still at large today.

Seven boys were in the party that evaded guards and left the school. Three were captured. According to the authorities the remaining four made their way to Sedalia. Engine No. 708, one of the largest used by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway, stood in the yards with steam up. Soon railroad employees noticed it was moving. Another engine was quickly obtained and with detectives aboard started in pursuit. But the race was one-sided. No. 708, bearing the fleeing lads, quickly drew away.

Orders were given by the train dispatcher here to derail the stolen engine at Pilot Grove, thirty-five miles south of Sedalia. With whistle blowing and bell ringing the engine, traveling sixty miles an hour, reached Pilot Grove before the switch had been arranged. A mile south of there the engine was abandoned and the boys escaped.

GIRL INJURED FROM STOVE EXPLOSION

Dynamite Believed to Have Been Placed in Heater Intentionally.

Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 17.—Norma Roethe, aged 13, daughter of Charles Roethe of Sheboygan Falls, was internally injured early this morning when an explosion, believed to have been caused by dynamite, wrecked the cook stove in the kitchen on which she was preparing breakfast.

The little girl built a fire and placed a coffee pot on the stove and had just sat down at the table ten feet away when the explosion occurred. The stove was blown to atoms and the room wrecked. The stove door was blown across the room and struck the girl in the chest, inflicting internal injuries. A boarder, who had passed through the room shortly before, was just returning when the explosion knocked him down, but caused no injury.

Authorities think someone had placed a stick of dynamite in a stick of wood to "get even" for some grudge.

100 TURNSTILES TO HANDLE FAIR CROWDS

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 17.—Work of installing 100 turnstiles at the exposition gates was begun today. Each turnstile will have a capacity of from 1,200 to 2,000 persons an hour. These are expected to take care of all the attendance at the world's fair here in 1915.

No tickets will be sold; the visitor dropping the amount of the admission into a box on the turnstile. An electrical counter will be installed so that the head of the concessions and admissions bureau may sit in his office and tell the number of persons passing through the fair at any moment and the total that had passed through.

WILD WEST DAYS LIVED OVER AGAIN

Walla Walla, Wash., Sept. 17.—With hundreds of cowboys, cowgirls, pioneers and Indians participating, the frontier days celebration began here today with a series of events characteristic of life in the wild and woolly west in the gone but not forgotten days. There was something doing every minute today, with stage coach racing, fancy roping, wild horse riding, cowgirls relay races, steer bull dogging contests, fancy and trick riding by cowboys and girls, and roping and tying of wild steers, a few of the stunts negotiated. The celebration will conclude Saturday when a huge parade headed by pioneers in freight wagons, pack trains, and other means of travel in the early '50's will traverse the principal streets.

SCOTCH TROOPS REFUSE TO ABANDON THEIR KILTS

London, Sept. 17.—The Scotch regiments won't give up their kilts. They have reluctantly permitted the war department to take away from them their plaids and their brightly colored banners and substitute khaki for the highland hues but they've got to khaki kilts, not khaki trousers.

In these days of high-powered guns and scientific warfare when all of the old-fashioned fashions in fighting have been thrown away and not even a band of five and drum corps can get onto a battle field, the Scotch regiments still hang to their bag pipers, or at least their bag pipers hang to the bagpipes. No English regiments will fight to music in the war, but the English war office didn't count the bagpipe as a musical instrument, much to the delight of the Scotch fighting men.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO MEET ON SEPT. 30

Meeting and Banquet of Janesville Merchants Planned by Secretary McDowell of Commercial Club.

W. J. McDowell, secretary of the Janesville Commercial club, has completed arrangements for a banquet of the retail dealers of the city to be held at the Grand Hotel ordinary Wednesday evening, Sept. 30, at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets will be mailed during the week from Secretary McDowell's office. No program will be arranged for the gathering, it being planned to follow up the menu with impromptu remarks. One hundred are expected to be in attendance.

LA FOLLETTE TICKET IS MERELY A BLUFF

THREAT THAT SENATOR WOULD RUN INDEPENDENT GIVEN NO
CREDENCE AT MADISON.

Uniting of Philipp and McGovern Republicanism Was Greatest Result of Platform Convention.

Madison, Sept. 17.—Talk that a third state ticket might be placed in the field during the present campaign was rife all the week. It did not take any definite shape, however, and those closest to the source of information smile when approached.

It was rumored Tuesday night that La Follette would appear on the scene himself to demand certain plank in the republican platform and that failing in that would announce his candidacy as an independent candidate. Like other rumors, he failed to materialize.

Wednesday the rumor took form that a dispatch had been sent over the railway telegraph lines from the St. Paul depot at West Madison, addressed to someone in the city, to be held subject to a release, in which La Follette formally made this announcement. Little credence was put in the report, however, as it was assumed it was a mere scarecrow put up to frighten the platform committee.

Third Party Bug-a-boos.

All through the deliberations of the platform committee, which lasted for the better part of two days, including a night session until the wee small hours Wednesday, this third party question continually was brought up. In fact, it was whispered one meeting that La Follette would run if he had enough of a war chest to make it possible. Emanuel Philipp, immediately said: "Send word to Senator La Follette that if he desires to become an independent candidate for governor I will finance his campaign and I think he knows I am financially able to do so. The funny part of the thing is that Philipp meant it."

Senator Blaine's appearance in Madison, wearing a button, probably an old one, was La Follette's score, nor, caused some commotion and he was immediately suggested that Blaine was a possibility as his adherence to the Wilson party two years ago and his La Follette leadership, would make his acceptance to both factions. However, it was but a flash in the pan.

Only once during the convention was there any threat made that might be construed as a possibility of a third ticket. This was during the fight over selection of members of the state central committee from the seventh district. Senator Rossbard and Dittmar, candidate for lieutenant governor, led the fight for two millionaires, members of the party, and when it was apparent they would lose, Rossbard waved his hand dramatically at the convention and said:

"I will be content for depriving us of our rights under this plea for harmony and the talk of a third ticket may not have been all gossip. No one paid any attention to it, however, and it passed unnoticed in the vote, which resulted in splitting the seventh delegation, giving M. Gordon of La Crosse, a place on the committee in place of Stone, an ultra anti-Philipp candidate."

Harmony Efforts Succeed.

The real result obtained by the convention was the uniting of the McGovern and Philipp republicans. They are in a majority and with a state central committee an overwhelming majority of whom are conservatives, and a state chairman, Alvin Kleisch, who worked for both McGovern and Philipp, in charge, the result can not be anything but harmonious despite any possibility of a third ticket in the field.

Karel controls the democratic state central committee, but his platform is a jumble of Atwood-Davies-Karel platitudes and there is no real need for a third ticket to bring the Atwood men in line as they are really fairly well satisfied. Just what La Follette will do is a question, but those who are closest to him have the opinion that he will let matters rest, first, owing to his health, which is very poor; second, because he wants some standing in the party when he seeks re-election to the senate two years from now, or the state delegation, if he decides to run for president.

HOW TO TEST
YOUR EYES

A SIMPLE TEST FOR NORMAL EYESIGHT.

An eye test that costs but five cents and is worth the price aside from the value of the test is a moving picture show. If you can sit through an average program without your eyes aching or feeling dry and tired and without feeling an inclination to open and close them frequently, and if an hour later, or the next morning, your eyes feel perfectly smooth and easy, there is nothing much the matter with them. If, however, your eyes are gritty, itchy, burn or itch or ache or feel overworked, try this prescription:

Optons 5 Grains (1 tablet).
Water 2 ounces.

Dissolve the tablet in the 2 ounces of water and use as an eye wash from two to three times a day. This application relieves the tired feeling, seems to loosen the stress or strain and makes your eyes feel smooth and fine. It is a boon after an evening at the moving picture show, or after a hard day's work where you have used the eyes incessantly. Irritation, inflammation and many minor eye troubles are greatly benefited and sometimes wholly cured by the use of this prescription. If you wear glasses, try it. You may, to your own surprise, find that you do not need them. Glasses bought at cheap stores without scientific adjustment to the eyes, or glasses worn too long without adjustment, are oftentimes not only absolutely unnecessary, but positively injurious. The use of this prescription may save you a favorable opportunity to judge whether or not you need glasses. It is a simple home remedy that has been used by hundreds of thousands, and among its users many regard it as an indispensable part of their daily toilet. The Smith Drug Co., or any druggist can fill this prescription.

This event will be the second annual Fashion Week, behind which stand all the merchants of the city with their tremendous stocks of up-to-the-minute merchandise. It promises to eclipse in brilliancy and completeness any similar exhibition ever conducted in this part of the state.

Display managers and their assistants have already started to set the stage for the advent of Dame Fashion and Fashion Week not only will attract with its abundance and variety of modes, but it will reveal to southern Wisconsin some splendid examples of window trimming.

There will be much to see and to learn in practically every store in Janesville, for the extent of the influence of Dame Fashion is not realized until all lines have been inspected. Men's and women's clothing, hats, shoes, jewelry, and all the accessories of the season are there to make the feminine heart palpitate and style will be manifest in jewelry, shoes, scarfs and articles of household utility as well as in cloaks, suits and other costumes. The purpose of Fashion Week is two-fold. First, through the combined showing of their models by all the stores an attraction of sufficient magnitude to interest all of southern Wisconsin is provided and, second, it gives Janesville the place it deserves as a shopping center. It does not result in creating extravagant tastes for fashionable merchandise, but enables the buyer, no matter what sum must encompass his or her total purchases of fall and winter raiment to obtain style in whatever is bought. The working girl with the few dollars she has to spend for goods can learn from the window displays what patterns should govern and she will find it possible with no additional outlay to make her own dress as fashionable as that of the wife or daughter of the rich man.

The windows of the different stores will be kept lighted until late each night to enable everyone to take advantage of the displays. Each window will display a card, pennant or other device bearing the inscription: "Janesville Combined Merchants' Fall Style Show and Opening."

After this show week there will be no excuse for any man or woman in southern Wisconsin to wear apparel that is not of fashion's latest decree. The exhibition will last for three days so there will be ample time for everyone to take advantage of it. The merchants of the city, through their division of the Commercial club, decided at a meeting held yesterday, that the only medium of publicity needed to exploit the different phases of Fashion Week would be the columns of the Gazette. That is the highest kind of compliment and recognition that this paper could receive. The only medium of publicity is read by mostly everyone in this part of the state the results which will accrue from the publicity used should be more than satisfactory.

OTHER YOUNG PEOPLE
GOING AWAY TO SCHOOL
NOT MENTIONED TUESDAY

In addition to the first list given in Tuesday's issue of the Gazette of Janesville young people going to outside colleges, universities and private schools, there are others to be listed. They are as follows:

J. Stewart Mills, George Razook, John Groat and Fred Korst plan to enter Wisconsin university as freshmen. While Fred Rau will take up senior work at St. John's Military Academy, at Delafield, Wis. Rau is slated for a line berth on the cadet football eleven this fall.

GEORGE LENG RECOVERED
AFTER FALL ON PITCHFORK

The condition of George Leng, who was impaled on the pronged end of a pitchfork, several weeks ago, at Orfordville in a fall from a straw stack is excellent according to word received today from Mercy Hospital, where the injured man is confined. Physicians at first feared for Leng's life but now it is felt that much danger is past and the man has good chances for recovery. Leng is able now to take much nourishment and has again regained his appetite. His stomach was punctured twice in the fall.

HEAR TESTIMONY BEFORE
COMMISSIONER HARLOWE

Testimony was heard by David Harlowe, member of the state railroad commission, yesterday afternoon, on the matter of having the Rockford Interurban company build a sheltered station at South Janesville for the convenience of passengers on the Interurban line. Employees of the Northwestern company, testified on the need of such an improvement.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CHARGE OF
MID-WEEK CHURCH MEETING

The mid-week service of the Congregational church this evening will be of special interest to young people. The Sunday school orchestra will lead the music. Miss Ada Lewis will contribute a song and Rolfe Dobson a violin solo. The speakers will be Alonzo Markham on "The Outcome of Summer Camps," Filmer Cuckow of Beloit college on "The Student Volunteer Movement," and Philip Whitehead on "Mission Enterprises Has Seen in North Africa." A large attendance is expected.

CORN CONTEST CAMPAIGN
OPENED TODAY IN COUNTY

To stimulate interest in the Janesville Commercial club's corn growing contest, a committee of that organization began today a tour of the county and called on entrants to the competition for honors in this respective line. Considerable territory was covered by the committee, who made the trip by automobile. Many entrants are prominent and yields per acre this year promise to top the records established last season.

THREE CONTAGIOUS
DISEASES REPORTED

Dr. M. A. Cunningham is a Sufferer With Diphtheria.—One Light Case of Small Pox.

While a week ago not a single contagious sign was displayed in Janesville, today there are three danger markers on local homes.

That even physicians are not immune from the ravages of disease cases they attend, is shown by the sickness of Dr. M. A. Cunningham, a former health officer. Dr. Cunningham contracted a bad case of diphtheria while attending the first sufferer to be brought down by the disease in Janesville in several months. Reports today from the physician's residence on Milwaukee avenue say the patient is doing nicely and is considerably improved over yesterday. Speaking this morning at Dr. Cunningham's case, Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, city health officer, said:

"Physicians, although they take every precaution, are not more safe from contracting the disease of the case they attend than any other person. Antiseptic throat gargles, gowns and rubber gloves are used by doctors to make themselves immune from the disease, but even these at times fail. Every doctor lays himself open to death in attending such cases."

Miss Etta Capelle is a smallpox victim at the home of her mother, Fred Capelle, 821 Third street. The source of Miss Capelle's sickness is unknown as there has been no smallpox case in Janesville in some time. It is thought, however, that the contagion was contracted in the north.

Miss Capelle has just recently returned from the lumbering country in Wisconsin and pestilence is nearly always present in these communities. The trip was made by automobile with stops at numerous lumber towns.

Miss Capelle's condition is reported good today and her case is very light. She is isolated from the rest of the household in a separate room.

"Vaccination," said Dr. Buckmaster today, "is the only means of thorough protection from smallpox. However," he continued, "you can't tell lots of people this. They absolutely refuse to be reasoned with."

Symptoms of a third diphtheria case are being investigated. The mother of the fellow youth, the first case to come to the attention of the health department, is ill and shows diphtheria signs. Antitoxin has been furnished the attending physician by Dr. Buckmaster. This family resides on West Bluff street, just above the Academy street railroad crossing.

Dr. Buckmaster stated that there was absolutely no danger of further contagion and gave assurance that every means is being taken to hold the cases within bounds.

FLORENCE GREGORY
WEDDED WEDNESDAY

Janesville Young Lady is United in Marriage to Malcolm McGalloway of Portsmouth, Ohio.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place yesterday afternoon at the parental home, 542 North Washington street, when Miss Florence I. Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gregory, was united in marriage to Malcolm McGalloway of Portsmouth, Ohio.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white embroidered chiton and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The newlyweds were attended by the bride's sister, Mrs. Alice Gregory Micka, who wore a gown of white net over yellow silk and carried yellow roses, and by James J. Gregory, brother of the bride. The ring ceremony was used, little Miss Annette Gregory acting as ring-bearer, carrying it in a beautiful pink rose. She was dressed in pink silk.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Julius Wagner of Kansas City, Mo., sister of the bride, the bridal party descended the stairs to the altar, placed beneath a bower of yellow roses they were united by the Rev. Henry Williams of Trinity Episcopal church. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served to the wedding guests who were the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. After an extended honeymoon through the east, Mr. and Mrs. McGalloway will make their future home to their friends at Portsmouth, Ohio.

GRAFT LIMB SKIN
TO REPLACE SCALP

Broadhead Woman Who Had Scalp Torn Away Undergoes Grafting Process to Extend Life.

Janesville physicians and many in this vicinity are watching with interest the case of Mrs. Benjamin Clark, the Broadhead woman whose entire scalp was torn off a week ago when her hair became entangled in the belt which transmitted power for running a cream separator. She was rushed to Mercy hospital here and has been confined there since.

An unusual operation in the annals of surgery has been performed in the attempt to restore Mrs. Clark to normal health conditions. The skin from a point just above her eyebrows, over the right ear and top of the head and well down to the upper portion of the neck was torn away. Drs. Frank Pomeroy and T. W. Kuzum have grafted skin from the limbs to the woman's head. Only one portion of the skull has been covered at present, the right. Later the left side will be covered, but now it is impossible to proceed further because of Mrs. Clark's condition. The strain on her system for both operations, it is felt, will not be so great as were the entire grafting to be done at one time.

The lady is doing nicely now and growing stronger each day.

Is Your Hair Right For The New Fall Styles?—By Lois.

You will delight in arranging your hair in the new and interesting modes of this season if you are among those who keep their hair perfectly soft and appearing naturally heavy by use of a shampoo that makes it very fluffy. Do not take chances with cheap shift or unknown soap mixtures. I have tried many in search of the best, cheapest and easiest to use and finally have decided to always use canthrox, which is made for shampooing only and is so beautifying in its effect upon the hair. I get it at any good drug store and one package lasts so long that it is the most economical shampoo I can get and my first trial convinced me that it was the most easily used. In clearing the scalp and hair of all dandruff, dirt, and excess oil, its delicately perfumed lather gently permeates to the hair roots and not only takes loose dirt but dissolves all the oil accumulations so they are rinsed out instead of being rubbed and scoured out, as with soap and so many cheap washes. My hair is now so fluffy that it seems much heavier than it is naturally.

Dinner Stories

The old man who acts as postmaster in a small southern town likewise keeps a general merchant's shop. He is often accused of reading the postcards that pass through his hands, but this he strongly denies.

A lady called at the shop and ordered, among other things, a ham and a cheese.

Two days later the lady called again and asked why these two articles had not been sent with the other goods.

"Oh!" replied the merchant calmly, "I saw by the postcard you got yesterday that you wouldn't need

An attempt was made last night by some unknown scoundrel to fire two of the buildings that are to be removed from the cotton mill site. The fire, however, was discovered and extinguished.

The proposition as to an alarm bell and hose tower which was expected to demand attention at the meeting of the council, did not come up for consideration. Probably Alderman McLean saw reasons for postponing them things."

John Sloan, the painter, was lecturing on "Models" before an art class in New York.

"Then there is the frivolous model," said Mr. Sloan. "She, unless very beautiful, is to be avoided."

"A frivolous model besought a friend of mine to employ her."

"No, no," he said, "I only do still life—flowers and fruit."

"Well," said the model, looking up at him reproachfully, "out of limpid blue eyes, 'well, ain't I a peach?'"

"Yes, I certainly advertised for a valet," said the gentleman in reply to action for the present.

An accident which will interfere with Charles Atwood's business application for some time, happened yesterday in the city coal yard. One of the horses employed in the wood sawing suddenly jumped off of the platform and in stopping the animal Mr. Atwood's foot was crushed badly by the machinery he had been driving.

STANDARD
Long Cut Tobacco

We've spent fifty years and millions of dollars creating tobacco brands. And we know that the reason STANDARD pleases the hearty smoker is because its quality is honest and its value the biggest.

We use pure Kentucky leaf in STANDARD. We carefully age it for three to five years so as to bring out its full richness. The process can't be hurried. So you see no other tobacco can be the same as STANDARD—and STANDARD itself can never vary in quality.

No matter what tobacco you may be smoking now, just try STANDARD for a week, and see if STANDARD doesn't give you greater satisfaction, day in and day out, working or resting, outdoors or indoors. By the end of the week you'll be a permanent user of STANDARD.

REPUBLICANS START CAMPAIGN AT ONCE

McGOVERN AND PHILIPP ACTUALLY INDICATED IN NAMING OF KLETZSCH AS CHAIRMAN.

PHILIPP PLANS TOUR

Trip Covering Entire State Will Be Arranged Immediately—Frank R. Bentley to Accompany Him.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., Sept. 17.—Headquarters of the republican state central committee will be opened in Milwaukee in a few days, according to leaders who attended the state platform convention. The overwhelming endorsement of Alvin F. Kletzsch of Milwaukee over George E. Scott of Prairie Farm by a vote of 83 to 21, for state chairman, showed that the McGovern and Philipp forces had agreed upon an active campaign for both candidates at the November election.

Changes were made in the membership of the state central committee so that George F. Cooper, a Black River Falls man, and only one member to be returned, and the convention made additional changes from the congressional district caucus nominations. The new committee is composed as follows:

New State Committee.
First—Charles J. Sumner, Delavan; George B. Harris, Waukesha.
Second—William Kohl, Mayville; H. E. Andrews, Sheboygan.
Third—W. J. Cleary, Blanchardville; Dr. Frank Smith, Madison.
Fourth—Richard Gunz, Milwaukee; George Meredith, Milwaukee.
Fifth—George A. West, Milwaukee; Dr. Otto Krueger, West.
Sixth—Charles Netzel, Black Wolf; Edward Lyons, Fond du Lac.
Seventh—George F. Cooper, Black River Falls; George H. Gordon, La Crosse.
Eighth—George B. Nelson, Stevens Point; E. F. Kileen, Wautoma.
Ninth—John L. Haney, Kewaunee; L. T. Crabtree, Grandon.
Tenth—John A. Roberts, River Falls; Ole G. Kinn, Colfax.
Eleventh—A. W. Sanborn, Ashland; George E. O'Connor, Eagle River.

Philipp Plans Campaign.
The convention yesterday afternoon gave the state central committee power to fill vacancies either in its own membership or upon the ticket. It is also announced that Emmanuel L. Philipp will open his campaign immediately with another tour of the state which he claims will be more complete than the primary tour. On this trip it is said he will be accompanied by Frank R. Bentley of Baraboo, defeated challenger for attorney general on the Philipp ticket.

Before adjourning the convention gave a vote of thanks to George E. Scott and Ed. P. Dittmar, retiring chairman and secretary, respectively, of the state committee. In concluding the platform adopted on Wednesday says:

We believe in constitutional government and in concentrating responsibility to government in the hands of constitutional officers of the state who are elected by the people and are directly responsible to the people. We promise the abolition of the committee that can be dispensed with, retaining only such as experience has proven are essential to the welfare of the people.

Good Roads.
We are in favor of good roads. The amount of money expended for that purpose should not be so large as to become burdensome to the taxpayers. The present large sum appropriated for state highway has put at the disposal of the highway commission annually more money than should be expended. These appropriations must be reduced and greater control of the levying and expending of highway funds given to local communities.

Water Powers.
Water power is conserved by being used. The republican party believes in the development and utilization of this great natural resource. Any further legislation needed to encourage this development should be enacted, conserving, however, the interest of the people thereon.

Reforestation.
We are opposed to the enlargement of the forest reserve area at state expense. Only nonagricultural lands should be retained for reforestation purposes.

Appeal to the electorate of Wisconsin on the record of the republican party and upon this declaration of its principles and its purposes.
We are confident that under the leadership of the candidate nominated our appeal will not be vain; that the republican party will meet every just expectation of the people whose servant it is; that our state will continue to advance; that peace and prosperity will abide with the people and that new glory will be added to our great state.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS OPEN MEETING

Mrs. C. V. Hibbard Gives Lecture on Work in Manchuria—Dinner Served to Seventy-Two People.

Members of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church, held a meeting last evening at the church parlors, and guests to participate in the dinner served shortly after six, and the program given afterwards. Seventy-two people were seated at the dining tables in the basement and a delightful repast was served. Mrs. C. V. Hibbard gave an interesting lecture on social and political conditions in Manchuria and the success of the work among the Japanese Chinese inhabitants of that country.

JOY IN DOING GOOD WORK.

The recipe for self-confidence is: Do good work. "Courage," says Emerson, "comes from having done the thing before." A man who does good work does not have to talk, apologize or explain—his work speaks. And even though there be no one to appreciate it, the man feels in it a great, quiet joy. He relaxes, smiles, rests, fully intent on taking up his labors tomorrow and doing better than ever.

FRISCO MAY GET BIG NAVAL BASE

Rear Admiral Charles F. Pond, The creation of a great naval base in the Bay of San Francisco, to be the central station for outfit, maintenance and departure of United States fighting ships in the Pacific, has been brought appreciably nearer by the outbreak of the European war.

Rear Admiral Charles F. Pond of the Twelfth naval district, which comprises the Pacific coast's naval defenses from the Mexican border to the Columbia river, has laid before the department at Washington a general plan whose main features have been approved. Secretary Daniels and the general board.

SERVICE IS RESUMED TO MINERAL POINT

St. Paul Opens Tentative Schedule on Line West After Flood Trouble of Several Days.

Passenger traffic was today resumed on the Mineral Point division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. No. 3, the regular morning train from the west was run in two sections, one starting from Brodhead and the other from Mineral Point. The Brodhead train arrived here on time, but the other section had orders to proceed slowly and was not expected to arrive here until this afternoon.

The regular train west from here was sent out with similar orders for proceeding. Assistant Superintendent Thurber of the Mineral Point division is still on the line with many work trains and crews of laborers busy. The division suffered the worst tie-up in its history. Conditions before have been bad, but the present disasters are something wholly unlooked for and never expected by railroad men.

From Monroe today came the first authentic reports of damage done in that vicinity. Between Juda and Brodhead the track was washed out in eight different places for distances from 200 to 300 feet. The Illinois Central railroad were compelled to abandon trains through Monroe, as washed out bridges at Orangeville and Sciota Mills made the running of trains impossible.

The Rota Lumber company at Orangeville has been forced to halt the way was swept by the waters and considerable lumber floated far down a nearby creek. Large quantities of cement were soaked and ruined. Just west of the village a long section of the track had been washed out. A section of about forty feet went out and the place was submerged with water to the depth of several feet.

Three bridges in Buckeye township, Stephenson county, were washed out. On the Ball Mill farm, owned by Adam Schmidt, east of Monroe, 250 shocks of corn in a field were carried away. Fences and standing corn in that vicinity were laid low and washed away.

At Lake Mills damage to the extent of $100,000 was felt. Hooper's mill dam went out with an estimated loss of $25,000 and the large ice shed of the Knickerbocker company was destroyed.

What It Costs to Be Artistic.
It isn't wealthy men who are idle, but wealth itself, which is permanent loading. Every year hundreds of millions of cash go into retirement for all time. One battleship lays on the shelf $15,000,000 of good money and it stays there. Germany's extra army measures for a year put $250,000 out of business for good. New York city's debt is increasing at the rate of $85,000,000 a year. Nearly all of that money is expended upon non-productive work. Monuments, boulevards and works of art, such as $500,000 in pictures, each year cost the world about as much as the world digs gold out of the earth. These are idlers who never earn any direct interest on the investment. America's wheat crop for one year isn't half big enough to compensate for the wealth that will be poured into nonproductive works.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

To Get Rid of Flies.
A quick method to drive flies out of the house is to put 20 drops of carbolic acid on a hot stove lid or hot shovel. Make the room semi-dark and leave only one window or door open. The flies will hurry away. A tablespoonful of formaldehyde, in a pint of water, left standing in a room, also drives them out.

WOMAN THROWN FROM BUGGY IN ACCIDENT

Miss Blanch Wheeler Sustains Minor Injuries in Accident Caused by Speeding Automobile.

Miss Blanch Wheeler, residing on route seven received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when thrown from a buggy near Leyden, her horse having been frightened by an automobile. Miss Wheeler was driving toward the city and states that when the auto, driven by four youths, went past her rig the driver made no pretence of stopping although her horse shied to the side of the road. The horse ran up the side of the embankment, cranked the buggy and threw the young lady to the ditch. Miss Wheeler struck on her head and sustained bruises about the shoulder and face. The four young men stopped and went back to the aid of the unconscious girl, righted the buggy but left before their names could be learned.

In the Nursery.
Of course, the most important room in the house where King Baby reigns supreme is the nursery. This room should be selected with care and should be as sunny as possible. The sun is the great purifier of the atmosphere and nothing should be done in the nursery which tends to contaminate the air. There must be no drying or washing of baby's clothes in this room; the gas should not be allowed to burn at night, but a night light used. An open fire, if it is possible to have one, is the very best source of heat.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ON SELECTION AND COUNTY FAIRS.
S ELECTION is always a difficult process to me. If you ask my little nephew, "Which hand will you have?" he invariably says "Both." and refuses to give any other answer. I sympathize with him. I have frequently said the same thing to the Fates when they offered me a choice between two opportunities, both unknown quantities hidden away behind the uncertainties of the future. And the Fates have frequently answered by giving me neither or perhaps a trifling part of each.

RUTH CAMERON

As one entered the fair grounds the first assault on one's purse and one's powers of selection came with "Toasted buttered popcorn, all flavors," ringing in one's ears, and "Fresh peanuts, five a bag," in the other. Then then of there was one continual call to choose. Should it be ginger ale or root beer? Should it be strawberry or vanilla ice? Did one prefer to purchase a balloon, a whip, a windmill or a whistle? Should one ride on the flying horses, or perhaps a tiny nigger in the head and get a box of candy or a good cigar?

But the most painful selection of all to me was the choice of a sideshow. We saw but one. That was a law immutability. And there were so many and they were wonderful. First I thought I wanted to see the fat woman. "She weighs six hundred pounds if she weighs ten, ladies and gentlemen." Of course, she must weigh ten, so the six hundred were proven beyond a doubt, and I was on the point of yielding my dime when the eyes of childhood? Not so, rather friends, for I shall have the eyes of childhood. On my way from the ship to the fair I shall gather in from the highways and byways all the little young youngsters that wouldn't have gone to the fair and ask them to lend me their eyes for the day. I wonder who will be the happiest, they or I?

The Awakening of Peggy

LXXIV.
 Peggy Wonders Whether a Serious Purpose is After All a Good Thing.
 Patty Smith, demure and artless to the masculine gaze, but known other- wise to her girl friends, had Parker Condit in tow, and was about to exhibit her captive to Peggy. Patty, as you may have gathered, was a bit more ardent than Condit, may have suspected. At any rate, her effervescent spirits and her baby-faced good looks interested the newcomer.
 "I believe I have met Miss Gray," Condit was saying as they walked along toward Peggy's home. "We had a dance at the party, and I had a few minutes' chat with her two or three evenings ago while we were both leaving work. She told me some interesting things about her new view of life."
 "I don't know what's come over Peggy," exclaimed Patty. "She's getting as serious as a setting hen. She used to be so much fun, but I don't know what's coming to her now." And she sighed.
 "I don't believe," ventured Condit, "that I should worry for her. Don't you think she'll come out all right?"

EVERYDAY TALKS TO EVERYDAY PEOPLE

(BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.)

A little old lady sat alone before the firelight's ruddy glow. Her son and his wife with whom she made her home, had gone to a lecture. Grandma should have been in bed too. She looked guiltily into the shadowy corners of the spacious room and wondered what flowers she could see her. She had no need to wonder she thought with a rush of bitterness. She knew. They would send her to bed like a little child. She held her hands to the chimney glass, her very heart seemed cold. She was lonely in her son's home where every one was kind to her. She chided herself for the thought she termed ungrateful and by way of atonement prepared for bed.

A minute longer she sat gazing into the red heart of the leaping flames—was she really looking in at the fireplace? She tried to rise, sunk back again in her chair. She was very tired—and yet—. She saw a cottage nestled among tall trees. A plain, small house with a white porch. That time and tossed into the discard, had entered as a happy, hopeful bride. How plainly she showed the road and the lane, and the children had played in sight of the door. She alighted from the buggy and entered the house—her future home. Jim had put the horse up and was entering the kitchen door as she finished her tour of inspection. He crossed the room to her side. "How do you like it, girl? He questioned eagerly. She whispered her answer in his arms. "You are sure you will not be lonely so far from your people?" "With you?" she asked in a tone that opened the gate to the land of the living. She looked at him beside her. How swiftly trod the foot of time! The children were coming home from school; there was a hint of snow in the air. Jim had gone to work. A neighbor drove up to their gate and told her the tale that caused the sun to set for her, while it was yet day. Jim, her own Jim, had been killed in a runaway. They were bringing him home. She stood beside his coffin looking down upon the face that even in death seemed to smile for her at the closed eyes. She looked a little across the lids. She thought she drained the cup of sorrow to its dregs then. But it was not then, with friends and neighbors coming in, that she lost him. It was when that followed, when with her stair-step crowd she faced life alone. The long still evenings, the empty chair, the endless night, the slow growth of the meaning of the word death, and when two of her children were laid beside their father on the hillside before the year had gone, her proud, little head before trouble's blast and fervently asked God to take her too.

There was work for her to do. The plans they had dreamed together she needed as much as they. Some times it was a poor best, for being father and mother both to four growing boys was a big undertaking for the woman who had lived a sheltered life from the world by Jim's strong arms. But she won, and when she thought her life's boat about to glide into a peaceful harbor before she was called to start her final journey, she made the mistake of leaving her little home to go to the city to live with one of her sons. Of course she was content! There were so kind to her. How could she be otherwise? And yet, how she longed for the little house where she had known life's supreme happiness as well as loneliness and pain.
 She stirred uneasily in her chair. She must go to bed before they came home. The fire seemed so dim, so far away. "Jim—my husband—And then again, 'Alice,' she faintly called, and "Margaret, into Thy hands, her voice trailed off into eternity's silence. Grandma's lonely days were ended.

"I'm afraid every place you set foot in—Kate D. Wiggin.

ENGLISH DISHES.

The famous Devonshire cream is used in the following dish and it is most delicious when carefully made. Put warm milk into a bowl and turn in carefully a tablet of dissolved rennet, using one tablet to a quart of milk.

Then when set add the scalded cream with sugar and cinnamon sprinkled over the top without breaking. To scald the cream, put the pan of cream over the heat and set back where it will heat gradually and when a ring appears on the top of the cream it is time to remove from the fire.

Clotted Cream.—Put four blades of mace and six teaspoonsful of rose water into a cup of milk and simmer a few minutes, then add this slowly to the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Pour the whole into a quart of cream and set over the fire; stir it till hot but do not let it boil; pour into a dish and let stand 24 hours. Serve it with sponge cake and fruit. The flavoring may be omitted if not liked.

Tunbridge Cakes.—Rub three-quarters of a cup of butter into four cups of flour, then add three-quarters of a cup of sugar, beat two eggs and add to the above. Roll out very thin and cut with a cutter. Prick with a fork and cover with caraway seeds or brush with white of egg and sprinkle with sugar. Bake until brown.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you kindly give me a good recipe for (tomato) chutney? (2) Am past thirty and my complexion seems dark with blotches. Do you think it would be possible for me to clear it up? What would help? (3) I have two daughters, very different disposition. One of them, when displeased, jerks herself and acts very angry. What treatment would you suggest for this? It is something I do not understand and do not know how to control it.

INTERESTED READER.

(1) Tomato Chutney: Take one large tomato, sized ripe tomato, one pepper finely chopped, one onion finely ground, two cups vinegar, three tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon salt, two tablespoons clove, two teaspoons cinnamon, two teaspoons allspice, two teaspoons grated nutmeg. Peel tomatoes and slice. Put in a pressure kettle with the remaining ingredients. Heat gradually to boiling point and cook slowly two and one-half hours. (2) If there are blotches on the skin, I should consult a good physician. Perhaps your digestion needs attention. (3) Talk it over with her and see if she will try to use self control. If she continues to act that way, you might make her sit half an hour after each outbreak of temper, so that she could think it over. I should not advise physical punishment.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell me a good remedy for a wart that is on a joint? (2) Do you think it proper for a chum to arrange a date for her girl friend with a gentleman? (3) Is it proper for a girl to correspond with a gentleman she does not know? (4) What do you think of these matrimonial papers for two girl friends to visit boys whom they know in another city? BROWNIE.

(1) Apply kerosene twice a day. If this does not prove effective, take one dram of salicylic acid and one ounce of colloidion, paint the wart with a tiny camelhair brush. (2) No. (3) No. (4) I do not recommend them. (5) No.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of fourteen. Am five feet three inches tall and weigh 150 pounds. Is that enough? (2) Have light brown hair, dark brown eyes, black long eyebrows and eyelashes, medium sized nose, small mouth, rather round face, red cheeks, rather clear complexion. Am I good looking? (3) How can I remove a red spot from my neck. It was partly burned by carbolic acid. ANXIOUS AND WAITING.

(1) Yes. (2) The description sounds well. If you have a much modesty about your looks you must be a very charming little girl. (3) Better leave it alone. It may go away as you grow older, and it is dangerous to meddle with such things. Olive oil might remove the red appearance of the scar, but I should advise you to consult a doctor about having it removed, if you feel that such a thing is necessary.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am anxious to know what will remove hair from my face so that it won't grow again? (2) Can it be done without harm?

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To keep wood pulleys on carpet sweeper from slipping after they have worn smooth, simply wrap once or twice with adhesive tape. This will also keep the wood pulleys from wearing unevenly with the grain of the wood.
 Any ordinary clothespin split in two is an excellent utensil for scraping out cooking vessels. The soft wood does not scratch them as metal does and it can be burned when soiled.
 To clean silverware easily drop in sour milk for twenty minutes, then wash and dry as usual.
 Adding a little sugar to water, for cut flowers, keeps them fresh longer.

THE TABLE.

Poor Man's Mushrooms—Radishes

have always been considered good only to eat raw. Try the following when mushrooms are at a premium: Peel and slice large radishes, and when you put your steak in the pan turn in the sliced radishes and allow them to cook in the juice of the steak until quite brown. Before taking them out put in a generous piece of butter. Season with salt and pepper. They can hardly be detected from the real article. Radishes are always very good when boiled as turnips are. Boil until very soft, season, mash and cream.

Blueberry Roly Poly.—This made with either the old-fashioned suet crust or a good baking powder and flour dough, filled with sugared and flavored berries, and steamed, boiled or baked, will delight the palate of the men folks and children.

Huckleberry Finn Cake.—Cream together half a cupful of butter and sugar; add four tablespoonsful of Indian meal and one of flour, a scant cupful of molasses and two thirds of a cupful of milk. Sift in a teaspoonful of baking powder, and last of all, two well-beaten eggs and a pint of berries. Bake at once.

Blueberry Sauce.—Mash a cupful of ripe berries, beat a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of butter to a cream. Beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth, mix all these ingredients lightly together and serve the sauce at once. It should not be made until wanted for the table.

Pineapple and Banana Salad.—Use canned pineapple which is in slices. Cut it into small dice and drain away juice. To one cup pineapple add one cup finely sliced bananas and pour over a syrup flavored with maraschino. Serve in lemon cups.

A SKIN OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER

Dr. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM OR MAGICAL BEAUTIFIER

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash and every blemish on beauty, and de-harmonizes the skin. It has stood the test of 66 years, and is so perfectly made, it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name.

Dr. T. A. Fayre said to a lady of the nation (a patient): "As you ladies will use them, I commend Gouraud's Cream as the best benefit of all the skin preparations." At drugists Ford, T. Hopkins & Son, Props., 37 Broad Street, N.Y.C.

Cottage Cheese.—Pour hot water over the sour milk; let it stand for five minutes, turn into a bag, and let hang overnight to drain. When ready to serve mash the curd with little sweet or sour milk or cream, beat light, add salt and pepper.

Cheese Balls.—Add two tablespoons of melted butter to half pint of dry cottage cheese; rub smooth; add half teaspoon salt, a saltspoon of paprika and a dash of pepper. Form into balls the size of English walnuts, roll in finely chopped nuts, then coat. Serve as a cheese course with lettuce and crackers.

The Last Shot

By
FREDERICK PALMER

(Copyright 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons)

"No, grandfather, crawlers have gone out of fashion. And no more epidemics of typhoid and dysentery either," said Tom.

"Times have certainly changed!"
grumbled Grandfather Fraglin.

Interested in their own reunion, they had paid no attention to a group of Tom's comrades nearby, sprawled around a newspaper containing the latest dispatches from both capitals.

"Five million soldiers to our three million!"

"Eighty million people to our fifty
million!"

"Because of the odds, they think we are bound to yield, no matter if we are in the right!"

"Let them come!" said the butcher's
son. "If we have to go, it will be on a wave of blood."

"And they will come some time,"
said the judge's son. "They want our land."

"We gain nothing if we beat them back. War will be the ruin of business," said the banker's son.

"Yes, we are prosperous now. Let well enough alone!" said the manufacturer's son.

"Some say it makes wages higher,"
said the laborer's son, "but I am thinking it's a poor way of raising your pay."

"There won't be any war," said the banker's son. "There can't be without credit. The banking interests will not permit it."

"There can't always be war," said the judge's son, "always when one people determines to strike at another people
—even if it brings bankruptcy."

"It would be a war that would make all others in history a mere exchange of skirmishes. Every able-bodied man in line—automatics a hundred shots a minute—guns a dozen shots a minute
—and aeroplanes and dirigibles!" said
the manufacturer's son.

"To the death, too!"

"And not for glory! We of the 53d
who live on the frontier will be fighting for our homes."

"If we lose them we'll never get them back. Better die than be beaten!"

Herbert Stransky, with deep-set eyes, slightly squinting inward, and a heavy jaw, an enormous man who was the best shot in the company when he cared to be, had listened in silence to the others, his rather thick but expressive lips curving with cynicism.

His only speech all the morning had been in the midst of the reception in the public square of the town when he said:

"This home-coming doesn't mean much to me. Home? Hell! The hedgerows of the world are my home!"

He appeared older than his years,
and hard and bitter, except when his eyes would light with a feverish sort of fire which shone as he broke into a lull in the talk.

"Comrades," he began.

"Let us hear from the Socialist!" a Tory exclaimed.

"No, the anarchist!" shouted a Socialist.

"There won't be any war!" said Stransky, his voice gradually rising to the pitch of an agitator relishing the sentiment of his own words. "Patriotism is the played-out trick of the ruling
classes to keep down the proletariat.
There won't be any war! Why? Because there are too many enlightened men on both sides who do the world's work. We of the 53d are a provincial lot, but throughout our army
there are thousands upon thousands like me. They march, they drill, but when battle comes they will refuse to fight—my comrades in heart, to whom the flag of this country means no more than that of any other country."

"Hold on! The flag is sacred!"
cried the banker's son.

"Yes, that will do!"

"Shut up!"

Other voices formed a chorus of angry protest.

"I knew you thought it; now I've caught you!" This from the sergeant, who had seen hard fighting against a savage foe in Africa, and therefore was particularly bitter about the Bodilapoo affair. The welt of a scar on the gaunt, fever-yellowed

cheek turned a deeper red as he seized Stransky by the collar of the blouse.
Stransky raised his free hand as if
to strike, but paused as he faced the company's boyish captain, slender of figure, aristocratic of feature. His indignation was as evident as the sergeant's, but he was biting his lips to keep it under control.

"You heard what he said, sir?"

"The latter part—enough!"

"It's incitation to mutiny! An example!"

"Yes, put him under arrest."

The sergeant still held fast to the collar of Stransky's blouse. Stransky could have shaken himself free, as a maeliff frees himself from a puppy,
but this was resistance to arrest, and he had not yet made up his mind to go that far. His muscles were weaving under the sergeant's grip, his eyes glowing as with volcanic fire waiting on the madness of impulse for eruption.

"I wonder if it is really worth while to put him under arrest?" said someone at the edge of the group in amiable inquiry.

The voice came from an officer of about thirty-five, who apparently had stroiled over from a nearby aeroplane station to look at the regiment. From his shoulder hung the gold cords of the staff. It was Col. Arthur Lanstron, whose plane had skimmed the Gal-
lands' garden wall for the "easy bump" ten years ago. There was something more than mere titular respect in the way the young captain saluted
—admiration and the diffident, boyish glance of recognition which does not presume to take the lead in recalling a slight acquaintance with a man of distinction.

"Dellarme! It's all of two years since we met at Miss Galland's, isn't it?" Lanstron said, shaking hands with the captain.

"Yes, just before we were ordered south," said Dellarme, obviously pleased to be remembered.

"I overheard your speech," Lanstron
"It was very informing."

A crowd of soldiers was now pressing around Stransky, and in the front rank was Grandfather Fraglin.

"Said our flag was no better'n any other flag, did he?" piped the old man.

"Beat him to a pulp! That's what the Hussars would have done."

"If you don't mind telling it in public, Stransky, I should like to know your origin," said Lanstron, prepared to be a considerate of an anarchist's
private feelings as of anybody's.

Stransky squinted his eyes down the bony bridge of his nose and grinned sardonically.

"That won't take long," he answered.
"My father, so far as I could identify him, died in jail and my mother of drink."

"That was hardly to the purple!" observed Lanstron thoughtfully.

"No, to the red!" answered Stransky savagely.

"I mean that it was hardly inclined to make you take a roseate view of life
as a beautiful thing in a well-ordered world where favors of fortune are evenly distributed," continued Lan-stron.

"Rather to make me rejoice in the hope of a new order of things—the recreation of society!" Stransky uttered the sentiment with the triumphant pride of a pupil who knows his text-book thoroughly.

By this time the colonel commanding the regiment, who had noticed the excitement from a distance, appeared,
forcing a gap for his passage through the crowd with sharp words. He, too, recognized Lanstron. After they had shaken hands, the colonel scowled as he heard the situation explained, with the old sergeant, still holding fast to Stransky's collar, a capable and insistent witness for the prosecution;
while Stransky, the fire in his eyes
dying to coals, stared straight ahead.

"It is only a suggestion, of course,"
said Lanstron, speaking quite as a spectator to avoid the least indication of interference with the colonel's authority, "but it seems possible that Stransky has clothed his wrongs in a garb that could never set well on his nature if he tried to wear it in practice. He is really an individualist. Enraged, he would fight well. I should like nothing better than a force of Stransky's if I had to defend a redoubt
in a last stand."

"Yes, he might fight." The colonel looked hard at Stransky's rigid profile, with its tight lips and chin as firm as if cut out of stone. "You never know who will fight in the pinch, they say.
But that's speculation. It's the example that I have to deal with."

THE WORLD SET FREE

Europe's Armageddon and
the Last War

By H. G. WELLS

Copyright, 1914, by H. G. WELLS

"This man Leblanc is right. The whole world has got to be a republic,
one and indivisible. You know that.
And my duty is to make that easy. A king should lead his people. You want me to stick on to their backs like some old man of the sea. Today must be a sacrament of kings. Our trust for mankind is done with and ended. We must part our robes among them. We must part our kingdoms among them and say to them all: Now the king in every one must rule the world. Have you no sense of the magnificence of this occasion? You want me, Firmin, you want me to go up there and baggie like a d—d little solicitor for some price, some compensation, some qualification."

Firmin shrugged his shoulders and assumed an expression of despair.
Meanwhile, he conveyed, one must eat.

For a time neither spoke, and the king ate and turned over in his mind
the phrases of the speech he intended to make to the conference. By virtue of the antiquity of his crown he was to preside, and he intended to make his presidency memorable. Reassured of his eloquence, he considered the dependent and sulky Firmin for a space.

"Firmin," he said, "you have idealized kingship."

"It has been my dream, sir," said Firmin sorrowfully, "to serve."

"At the levers, Firmin," said the king.

"You are pleased to be unjust," said
Firmin, deeply hurt.

"I am pleased to be getting out of it," said the king.

"Oh, Firmin," he went on, "have you no thought for me? Will you never realize that I am not only flesh and blood, but an imagination—with its rights? I am a king in revolt against that fetter they put upon my head. I am a king awake. My reverend grandparents never in all their august lives had a waking moment.
They loved the job that you, you advisers, gave them. They never had a doubt of it. It was like giving a doll to a woman who ought to have a child.
They delighted in processions and opening things and being read addresses to and visiting triplets and nongenarians and all that sort of thing. Incredibly. They used to keep albums of cuttings from all the illustrated papers showing them at it, and if the press cutting parcels grew thin they were worried. It was all that ever worried them. But there is something atavistic in me. I hark back to unconstitutional monarchs. They christened me too retrogressively, I think.
I wanted to get things done. I was bored. I might have fallen into vice—most intelligent and energetic princes do—but the palace precautions were unusually thorough. I was brought up in the purest court the world has ever seen—allegory pure. So I read books, Firmin, and went about asking questions. The thing was bound to happen to one of us sooner or later. Perhaps, too, very likely I'm not vicious.
I don't think I am."

He reflected. "No," he said.

Firmin cleared his throat. "I don't think you are, sir," he said. "You prefer?"

He stopped short. He had been going to say "talking." He substituted
"ideas."

"That world of royalty," the king
went on. "In a little while no one will understand it any more. It will become a riddle."

"Among other things, it was a world of perpetual best clothes. Everything was in its best clothes for us and usually wearing bunting, with a cinema watching to see we took it properly. If you were a king, Firmin, and you go and look at a regiment it instantly stops whatever it is doing,
changes into full uniform and presents arms. When my august parents went in a train the coal in the tender used to be whitened. It did, Firmin, and if coal had been white instead of black
I have no doubt the authorities would have blackened it. That was the spirit of our treatment. People were always walking about with their faces to us.
One never saw anything in profile.
One got an impression of a world that was insanely focused on ourselves.
And when I began to poke my little questions into the lord chancellor and the archbishop and all the rest of them about what I should see if people turned around the general effect I produced
was that I wasn't his son means displaying the royal that they had expected of me."

He meditated for a time.

"And yet you know there is something in the kingship, Firmin. It stiffened up my august little grandfather;
it gave my grandmother a kind of backward dignity, even when she was cross, and she was very often cross.
They both had a profound sense of responsibility. My poor father's health was wrecked during his brief career.
Nobody outside the circle knows just how he screwed himself up to things.
'My people expect it,' he used to say of this tiresome duty or that. Most of the things they made him do were silly.
It was part of a bad tradition, but there was nothing silly in the way he set about them. The spirit of kingship is a fine thing, Firmin. I feel it in my bones. I do not know what I might not be if I were not a king. I could die for my people, Firmin, and you couldn't. No, don't say you could die for me because I know better.
Don't think I forget my kingship, Firmin; don't imagine that. I am a king, a kingly king, by right divine. The fact that I am also a chattering young man makes not the slightest difference to that. But the proper textbook for kings, Firmin, is none of the court memoirs and well-politick books you would have me read; it is old Fraser's
'Golden Bough.' Have you read that, Firmin?"

Firmin had.

"Those were the authentic kings. In the end they were cut up and a bit to everybody. They sprinkled the nations—with kingship."

Firmin turned himself round and faced his royal master.

"What do you intend to do, sir?" he asked. "If you will not listen to me,
what do you propose to do this afternoon?"

The king flicked crumbs from his coat.

"Manifestly war has to stop forever, Firmin. Manifestly this can only be done by putting all the world under one government. Our crowns and flags are in the way. Manifestly they must go."

"Yes, sir," interrupted Firmin, "but what government? I don't see what government you get by a universal ab-dication."

"Well," said the king with his hands

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me
to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and
in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs.
AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the greatest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind
a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized
from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound;
and in some cases that it has saved them
from surgical operations.

about his knees, "we shall be the government."

"The conference!" exclaimed Firmin.
"Who else?" asked the king simply.

"It's perfectly simple," he added to Firmin's tremendous silence.

"But," cried Firmin, "you must have sanctions! Will there be no form of election, for example?"

"Why should there be?" asked the king with intelligent curiosity.

"The consent of the governed."

"Firmin, we are just going to lay down our differences and take over government without any election at all, without any sanction. The government will show their consent by silence.
If any effective opposition arises we shall ask it to come in and help. The true sanction of kingship is the grip upon the scepter. We aren't going to worry people to vote for us. I'm certain that the mass of men does not want to be bothered with such things.
We'll contrive a way for any one interested to join in. That's quite enough in the way of democracy. Perhaps later, when things don't matter. We shall govern all right, Firmin. Government only becomes difficult when the lawyers get hold of it, and since these troubles began the lawyers are shy.
Indeed, come to think of it, I wonder where all the lawyers are. Where are they? A lot of course, were bagged—some of the worst ones—when they blew up my legislature. You never knew the late lord chancellor.

"Necessities bury rights. Lawyers live on rights. We've done with that way of living. We won't have more law than a code can cover, and beyond that government will be free.

SARAH PADDEN IN A DELIGHTFUL NEW PLAY

Talented Young Actress Pleases Her Audience at Myra Theatre Last Evening.

"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row" is by far the strongest play in which this talented young woman has appeared and it may safely be said, judging from her work here last evening, that she is reaping the rewards of the diligent, comprehensive work which she did in "Kindling" and "The Third Degree."

"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row" tells the story of Nora Blake, a shop girl, a veritable "Peg O' My Heart" who masters poverty, overcomes prejudice, hands a substantial jolt to snobbery, and as she tells it herself, "lands at the very top of the heap." And it is these that made up the warp and wool of one of the prettiest and altogether most delightful plays seen here in the past few days.

Supporting Padden was a large and capable cast, nearly twenty players in all, in which were several charmingly pretty girls.

CASCARETS CURE

HEADACHE, COLDS, CONSTIPATION

To-night. Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowels, action, clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

Rheumatism. A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It. In the spring of 1888 I was attacked by Rheumatism and Intermittent Rheumatism, suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried every remedy, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of Rheumatism to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be the long-sought-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, you must send your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that what you want? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

Flowers of Music.
The graces—namely, the shake, the turn, the appoggiatura, etc.—are the flowers of music; and the clear, correct, and delicate execution of them embellishes and exalts every melody and every passage. But when they are played stiff, hard, or unintelligibly, they may rather be compared to blots of ink or spots of dirt.—Carl Czerny.

AN OLD REMEDY

Beef, Iron and Wine is one of the good old remedies that has outlived a score of patent tonics; reasonable in price, a satisfactory tonic, appetizer and mild stimulant. There is nothing better for that tired, worried, listless feeling or run-down condition of the system after illness of any kind. It tones the whole system, stimulates digestion, gives you appetite, is a good iron tonic for weak, pale children or old people, far more effective than malt extracts or so-called wine of cod liver oil that depend upon their stimulants alone. Beef, Iron and Wine tones and sustains, it assists nature to recuperate, it's a food to the sick and nursing mothers.
Mr. Pennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, prepares our Beef, Iron and Wine. It's always fresh, made from the very best extract of beef, wholesome, properly aged sherry wine and soluble iron.
We don't sell ready-made, hand-made, factory-manufactured Beef, Iron and Wine. We believe and know that medicine should be compounded only by the experienced and scientifically trained.
Try a bottle of our Beef, Iron and Wine as made by Mr. Pennig. 75c a full pint. Note its wholesome taste and invigorating effect. You will be more than satisfied. Get it at the Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River streets.

AMERICAN ATHLETES LOSE TO BRITISHERS

Hal Sheridan Calls Attention to American's "Bum" Showing in International Sports.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, Sept. 17.—The death knell of international sports for a couple of seasons at least—has been sounded by the great war now raging in Europe. Not only will the countries of Europe not have any time for athletic engagements, but it is extremely unlikely that any of them will have enough first class athletes when the war is over to assemble any kind of an athletic team.

The cream of Europe's athletes are practically all on the battlefields now. A great majority of those who helped to wrest many and diverse honors from Uncle Sam during the past year on the athletic field were at that time members of the armies in their respective countries. Those who did not belong to the army have joined since the war started almost to a man. It is hardly likely therefore that all of these or even the biggest part of them will survive the great struggle. And it will take years before Europe—especially Great Britain—ever assemble such a crack quota of athletes as it hurled against the United States during the past year on fields of sport.

A little resume of what Johnny Bull did to our Uncle Sam wouldn't be out of place right now, since all international sport conflicts are on for the time being.

Scanning the past year we find that the two countries have clashed in seven big events. Out of those seven events our cousins from across the big pond pulled away with five victories, leaving Uncle Sam two.

Figuring out on the percentage basis it has been pretty bum for American athletes. Their two wins against five defeats gives them a percentage of .288, and even a tall end club in a baseball league would shear at that. John Bull's percentage would be .714—some mark as marks go. It seems like only yesterday—it was last year in fact—that we were conceiving many a pun about the athletic ability of our relatives in the British Isles. They weren't winning many conflicts in those days. And then it happened!

At relay racing, golf, polo, boxing and tennis, Uncle Sam's athletic representatives got such a licking as they never had in the history of international sports. They had no alibi to offer. They were trained to the minute in every case and were beaten simply because they met better men.

WOLGAST IS READY FOR JOE MANDOT

Former Kingpin of Lightweights Down to Weight For Ten Round Battle With New Orleans Scrapper.

Many Jansville fans will witness the ten round battle between Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champ, and Joe Mandot, the New Orleans brawler, before the Milwaukee club Friday night. This bout will mark the opening of the glove season in Wisconsin and promises to attract wide attention, furnishing the state fair visitors and local fans plenty of action.

Wolgast is now down to weight and is only doing light training while reports from Chicago show Mandot in fine fettle for this important bout. His fight will prove whether or not Wolgast will be a factor in the lightweight elimination contest for it he will fight the New Orleans brawler, the ex-champ will be in line for a scrap with White or Ritchie.

Mandot studied Wolgast in a previous match and trounced Matty McCue last year and has something on the Michigan bearcat when it comes to reach and fight. The outcome of the match probably hinges on the condition of Wolgast's hands for with his take and give style of fighting it is necessary his fists be perfectly healed from old breaks. Two ten-round preliminaries are scheduled between lightweight boxers. Knockout Krause who issued a challenge to the winner of the Scotty-Jahoney bout here, meets Gene Gannon in the opener and Freddie Andrews, Wolgast's training mate, goes the state marathon distance with Travers, a clever Chicago lightweight.

GIANTS WIN BUT SO DO THE BOSTONIANS

Evers Starts Rally That Defeats St. Louis 7 to 3—Demaree Victor, 8 to 1—Cubs and Zim Lose.

As the National League race comes to an end, it looks as though a Giant victory wasn't going to amount to very much, for every time McGraw and his bunch win, the Braves are sure to rally, and hold their three all-star one-half games margin in the title chase.

It was Johnny Evers, former Cup keystone sacker, and now with the Braves, who was responsible for the start at least of the Boston rally in their game against St. Louis yesterday. After being presented with a chest of silver by club associates, in remembrance of "Evers' day," he raced to third on a scratch hit and an error by Beck, St. Louis' lead of three runs was covered over and the game safely tucked away. Tyler was found for 9 bingles, while Perrell and Griner, were hit ten times.

Demaree finally won a game for his Giant team. He had not been working good for some weeks, and McGraw threatened to replace him, if he did not take a turn for the better. He went seven innings without allowing a run, and finished the battle, allowing one run and five hits, the final count being 8 to 1. Ames and Fitterly hurled for the Reds, and were scarce with their singles, the Giants getting but 6 swats during the fray.

Heine Zim is the most distinguished Cub player today, following his two errors of yesterday, in addition to leaving the pill over the grandstand. He was ruled from the game, which seemed to satisfy him perfectly. The Cubs lost, mainly through his tactics, 7 to 2. Lavender, Pierce and Smith gave Brooklyn chances to hit 9 times, while the team's defense found Allan but six times. The schedule for today remains the same as yesterday.

SQUAD DO TACKLING STUNT AT PRACTICE

Smoothness of Drill Pleases Coach Curtis—New Backfield Works Like a Machine.

A successful season at the high school this fall in football is beginning to look all the more evident, following the excellent drill of yesterday afternoon, in which some of the candidates participated in shift tackling, passing the ball, and other essential parts of the game.

Coach Curtis is more than pleased at the showing made yesterday by even the weakest men, but they must accept the credit to a better advantage before any praise is to be uttered by the local mentor. He was assisted by Woodworth again yesterday, the latter working an eleven through a light signal drill that was fast and snappy. Slavson at center, Capt. Stewart at quarterback, Dear and Cronin at halves, and Jones and Raul at ends, worked an eleven produced some high class signal work. They worked together smoothly and were quick and accurate. Woodworth will aid Curtis all week, and perhaps a portion of next week, until he leaves for school. His addition to the coaching staff is a great help and the members of the squad feel that his experience in the coaching will prove a big benefit to inexperienced recruits, who may be used in the line. Drill was scheduled again this afternoon at four-fifteen.

SCHEDULE FOR GYM CLASSES COMPLETE

Physical Director Leek Has Novel Arrangement for Coming Winter Months at Y. M. C. A.

The gymnasium and swimming classes at the Y. M. C. A. the coming winter will be run on a novel basis, as arranged by physical director Leek. The three Junior sections have commenced their gymnasium and swimming work, and are progressing rapidly. Director Leek has not commenced the other classes, and will not, until colder weather arrives. Expecting the weather that is now being enjoyed out-of-doors, he believes the delaying of the intermediate, senior and business men's classes, will in the long run be of more benefit than by having them start along with the youngsters' divisions. More interest can be attained by this method is his idea. If cold weather comes within a week, all members of the older classes will be expected to begin gym work, but otherwise the classes will not be started until September 28th or October 1st.

The schedules for the gym and swimming classes are given as follows:
Gymnasium Class Schedule.
Business Men: Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, at five-fifteen.
Seniors: Monday and Wednesday nights at eight, and Saturday nights at seven-thirty.

SCHEDULE FOR GYM CLASSES COMPLETE

Physical Director Leek Has Novel Arrangement for Coming Winter Months at Y. M. C. A.

The gymnasium and swimming classes at the Y. M. C. A. the coming winter will be run on a novel basis, as arranged by physical director Leek. The three Junior sections have commenced their gymnasium and swimming work, and are progressing rapidly. Director Leek has not commenced the other classes, and will not, until colder weather arrives. Expecting the weather that is now being enjoyed out-of-doors, he believes the delaying of the intermediate, senior and business men's classes, will in the long run be of more benefit than by having them start along with the youngsters' divisions. More interest can be attained by this method is his idea. If cold weather comes within a week, all members of the older classes will be expected to begin gym work, but otherwise the classes will not be started until September 28th or October 1st.

The schedules for the gym and swimming classes are given as follows:
Gymnasium Class Schedule.
Business Men: Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, at five-fifteen.
Seniors: Monday and Wednesday nights at eight, and Saturday nights at seven-thirty.

THE GOOD JUDGE LOSES

GET steady tobacco satisfaction—all day, every day, from a clean, small chew.
"Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew. Made of pure, sappy, full-bodied tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough. It's glad news that a man can't help telling his friends about as soon as he learns the facts himself.
The taste lasts longer. You use less tobacco.
Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.
It is a ready chew, cut fine and short so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.
The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."
One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.
